MOTHERHOOD

The greatest ambition of American men and women is to have homes blessed with children. The woman afflicted with female disease is constantly menaced with becoming a childless wife. No medicine can restore dead organs, but Wine of Cardui does regulate derangements that prevent conception; does prevent miscarriage; does restore weak functions and shattered nerves and does bring babies to homes barren and desolate for years. Wine of Cardui gives women the health and strength to bear healthy children. You can get a dollar bottle of Wine of Cardui from your dealer.

WINE OF CARDUI

143 Market street,
Memphis, Tenn., April 14, 1901.
In February, 1901, I took one bottle of Wine of Cardui and one package of Thedford's Black-Draught. I had been married fifteen years and had never given birth to a child until I took Wine of Cardui. Now I am mother of a fine baby girl which was born March 31, 1901. The baby weighs fourteen pounds and I feel as well as any person could feel. Now my home is happy and I never will be without Wine of Cardui in my house again.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

The First of These Organizations in This Country Was Sorosis.

The first woman's club in this country was Sorosis. The inspiration for action in such form came to Mrs. Jennie C. Croly of New York city. That she was distinctly successful so far as quality goes in carrying out this inspiration is instanced by the names of such women as Alice Cary, Kate Field, Phœbe Cary and Ella Dietz Clymer as officers for the first year.

The object of Sorosis was to bring together women of all kinds and each to assist the other in working along her own lines in the way most helpful to herself. Such a platform necessitated much sympathy and patient inquiry before settling down to what might be termed systematic work. This little band of women realized keenly that they had been and still were shut out from much legitimate endeavor, and they determined to bide their time and work out their own salvation and that of all like minded sisters.

Just when Sorosis was in the embryonic stage a letter came from Miss Kate Field, telling of the formation of another club in Boston and objecting to the name of the New York club. She wrote: "The Boston women are also forming a club, but they have got men with them and know better what they want. They will accomplish something practical and definite. Don't go on with Sorosis. I won't have the name. Nobody knows what it means, and nobody will know what you mean or what you want, and you will be laughed at."

After a temporary change of name and tribulation generally Sorosis resumed her baptismal name and slowly but surely found out what she wanted and what she meant, and after a longer stretch of time made a steadily increasing and approving public know what she wanted and what she meant. Today hundreds of thousands of women rise up and call its founder and faithful coworkers "blessed."—Rebecca Douglas Lowe in Pilgrim.

Horses, Dogs and Drunken Men.

"A horse hates a drunken man," says an old stableman, "but a dog seems to feel that a drunk isn't responsible for himself and acts accordingly. A dog, no matter how fierce he is, will never bite a drunken man. He seems to know by instinct when a man is under the weather and treats him much as he would treat a child. But with a horse it's different. A horse treats a drunken man with contempt—doesn't want to have anything to do with him.

"There used to be an old bum who loafed around the car stables and who somehow or other always managed to keep loaded up to the nozzle. Some nights he would creep into a stall and go to sleep in the straw. The horses when they finished the last run at night would always be ready to drop in their stalls, but I never knew a horse that would sleep with the bum. Rather than lie down alongside him the horse would stand up all night."—Philadelphia Record.

An Anecdote of Le Sage.

Of Le Sage M. Claretie says, "Breton he remained all his life by character, pride, independence, probity, tenacity carried to obstinacy and by superstition." Before "Turcaret" was played he had promised the Duchess de Bouillon to read her the piece. It was thought that the reading would take place before dinner. Some business detained him, and he arrived late.

The Duchess de Bouillon received him with an appearance of impatience and told him with an air of discontent that she had lost an hour waiting for him.

"Well, madame," said Le Sage coldly, "I will make you gain two hours." After this short speech he bowed and went away.

A Different Kind of Fire.

Chumply (at the reception)—Is this Mrs. Passionpen, the celebrated poetess?

Mrs. Passionpen (haughtily)—It is.

Chumply (effusively)—I should have known you among a thousand.

Mrs. Passionpen—Why?

Chumply (grandiloquently)—The fire of genius burns on your brow.

Mrs. Passionpen (derisively)—Do not be deceived, young man. That is where I scorched myself curling my hair. You'd better guess again.

Gold Colors.

Many people suppose that all gold is alike when refined, but this is not so. An experienced man can tell at a glance from what part of the world a goldpiece comes and in some cases from what particular gold district the metal has been obtained. Australian gold, for instance, is distinctly redder than that from California. The Ural gold is the reddest found anywhere.

DEPEND UPON YOURSELF.

Not Only Know Your Lesson, but Know That You Know It.

Henry Ward Beecher, especially in his later life, was fond of telling this story about his teacher, who taught him to depend upon himself:

"I was sent to the blackboard and went uncertain, full of whimpering.

"'That lesson must be learned,' said my teacher in a very quiet tone, but with terrible intensity. All explanations and excuses he trod under foot with utter scornfulness. 'I don't want any reason why you haven't it,' he would say.

"'I did study it two hours.'

"'That is nothing to me. I want the lesson. You may not study it at all or you may study it ten hours. Just suit yourself. I want the lesson.'

"It was rough for a green boy, but it seasoned me. In less than a month I had the most intense sense of intellectual independence and courage to defend my recitations.

"One day his cold voice fell upon me in the midst of a demonstration, 'No.' I hesitated and then went back to the beginning, and on reaching the same point again 'No!' uttered in a tone of conviction, barred my progress.

"'The next!' And I sat down in red confusion.

"He, too, was stopped with 'No!' but went right on, finished, and as he sat down was rewarded with 'Very well.'

"'Why,' whimpered I, 'I recited it just as he did, and you said "No!"'

"'Why didn't you say "Yes" and stick to it? It is not enough to know your lesson. You must know that you know it. You have learned nothing till you are sure. If all the world says "No!" your business is to say "Yes" and prove it.'"

Early Marriages.

As a corrective to exaggeration and inaccurate statements there is nothing like statistics. That is probably why most people so much dislike them. We have been persistently given to understand, for example, that nowadays people are too practical, too selfish, too worldly wise or what not to marry as young as their fathers and mothers and grandparents. But it seems that this is entirely wrong. Things are not always what they seem, and, though, from our individual personal observation, one might have been disposed to completely indorse this statement, it appears that the register knows better and can prove by hard figures that cannot possibly be contradicted that men and women do not marry any later in life than they did at least a generation ago. We are glad to hear it. After all, there's nothing half so sweet in life as love's young dream. Middle aged lovers are not romantic, and we can ill spare anything that makes for romance in these days.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Manx Humor.

Even narrow mindedness has its humorous side. "He's nice enough," said an old farmer, a stanch churchman of the Isle of Man, speaking of an acquaintance, "but he's a Methodist—not that he's on the 'plan' at all, but he's next door to it."

The degrees of comparison suggested here are delicious. The old fellow had no intention of being amusing, yet was not by any means destitute of humor, as the following advice, full of worldly wisdom, which he gave to a peddler and local preacher, will testify.

"I was tellin' him," said he, with a twinkle in his gray eyes, "people would be thinkin' far more of him and his things if he joined the church, and maybe the bishop himself would buy something."—Saturday Review.

A Name Twister.

Some years ago Prince (then Count) Munster, with Count Beust and Count Schouvaloff, was attending a foreign office reception in London. Their names afforded no slight difficulty to the thoroughly English footman who announced the guests by shouting their names up the great staircase. Count Schouvaloff arrived first, and the footman duly announced him as "Count Shuffleoff." Then came Count Beust, whose name in the servitor's mouth became "Count Beast." Lastly Count Munster appeared, and the footman, evidently feeling that a supreme effort was required, finished off by calling out "Count Monster."

A Dissenter.

A well known bishop was once just starting on a railway journey from Chester station when the station master came up to him and said, referring to his luggage, "How many articles are there, my lord?"

"Thirty-nine," was the reply.

"I can only find sixteen," answered the other.

"Then," said the bishop, "you must be a dissenter!"—Glasgow Times.

A VISIT OF CONDOLENCE.

Little Edna Expressed Her Sympathy In Her Own Words.

Little Edna was a solemn child. Whether that was due to her own peculiar disposition or to the fact that her old black mammy delighted in mournful events it is hard to say.

On one occasion Edna went with her mother to pay a "visit of condolence" to her aunt, whose husband had recently died. She was very fond of this aunt, who had expressed a wish to see the little niece, so she and her mother came all the way from their country home, and on the road mamma talked seriously to the little girl.

"You must be very sweet to auntie, darling. She has had such a sorrow."

"Yes, it was dreffful," said Edna, with a sympathetic sigh.

"It certainly was, and you must say something very nice to her."

"What, mamma?"

"Oh, I don't know, dear; anything that comes into your kind little heart. And you must hug and kiss her and tell her how much you love her. Poor auntie!"

"Oh," said Edna, and she lapsed into silence until they reached their destination.

On seeing the child her aunt was very much affected and cried a good deal, and Edna sat on her lap, patting her hands and stroking her hair while thinking of something "comfortable" to say.

At last she made up her mind to speak. She leaned over and kissed her auntie softly on the forehead. The tear stained face was raised to hers, and the child whispered:

"Auntie, darling auntie, did you joy yourself at the funeral?"—Ohio State Journal.

Why She Forgot.

"Bridget, I want a pound of steak, a bag of salt, two ounces of pepper, a loaf of bread and a pound of butter. Do you think you can remember them all, or shall I write them down?"

"Sure, ma'am, I can remember one by the other. When I have bread, I know I want butter, and when I have steak I know I want pepper and salt."

"All right. Go and don't be long."

Bridget was not long. She was back in a very short time, but with an empty basket.

"Why, where is the dinner, Bridget?"

"I couldn't remember one of them, ma'am."

"Why, I thought you could remember each article by the one before it?"

"Faith, ma'am, I had nothing to remember the first one by!"—London Tit-Bits.

Wise Distribution of Time.

Once when dining quite by chance with Dr. Creighton, the late bishop of London, at a certain club Lord Rosebery remarked: "Ah, my lord bishop, what a nuisance this dining is! Two things I absolutely dread—a long dinner and long sermon. I think that a sermon and a dinner, however good either may be, ought never to last more than a quarter of an hour or twenty minutes at the most."

"Well, well," said Dr. Creighton musingly, "could we not arrange matters this way, my lord? Knock, say, ten minutes off the sermon and put it on to the dinner."—"Men of the Moment."

Would You Think It?

Would you think it possible that you could be disappointed in the face of a woman whose shapely shoulders, and beautiful hair suggest womanly perfection and beauty? Such disappointment comes not seldom when the face turned to you shows disfiguring blotches and blemishes. In general the cause of these eruptions is impure blood.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the corrupt accumulations which cause disease. When the blood is cleansed, pimples, tetter, salt-rheum, boils, sores, and other results of impure blood, are perfectly and permanently cured.

"For three years I suffered with that dreaded disease eczema," writes Mrs. J. Koepp, of Herman, Oregon. "I was told to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, and after I had taken fourteen bottles I was permanently cured. It has been a year since I stopped taking your medicine and it has never appeared since. I think your medicine a wonderful cure and hope others suffering as I did, will take it and be relieved of their suffering."

Some of the most remarkable cures effected by "Golden Medical Discovery," have been of scrofulous diseases.

"I will forever thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Jas. Murphy, of Fonda, Pocahontas Co., Iowa. "It has cured me of chronic scrofula of twelve years' standing. I had doctored for the trouble until I was completely discouraged. I also had chronic diarrhea for twelve years. I am in good health now—better than I ever was in my life, owing to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took several bottles of the 'Discovery' before I stopped."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure dizziness and sick headache.

DR. LAWLOR'S CASE.

ANY one having a spark of humanity in his composition cannot fail to sympathize with the poor, unfortunate children at the Home for Feeble Minded at Eldridge. To them, whose minds are clouded intellectually, the deep sympathy of a civilized human race is bound to go forth. They are irresponsibles by no act of their own. Their imbecility may have been wrought by ill-assorted marriages, the accident of birth or some other cause over which the poor unfortunate charges of the State have had no control whatever. The feeble minded children of the California Home appeal to the sympathies of all those who are in the full enjoyment of their mental faculties.

The Brute creation, as a matter of fact, is not capable of drawing the line in a matter of this kind.

This reminds us that the sang froid confession of Dr. Lawlor of the California Home at Eldridge made to Edwin Clough, the Examiner representative, who interviewed him last Saturday night for the purpose of disproving the charges of brutality brought against the doctor by its hated rival, the Chronicle, would seem to indicate that Dr. Lawlor is utterly devoid of any human instinct of sympathy for his poor, little unfortunate charges, and being devoid of that instinct would make a far better Lion Tamer than a Trainer for Feeble Minded Children, for does not the accused doctor confess to immuring helpless imbeciles in a veritable dungeon for days at a time on a diet of bread and water?

For shame! Dr. Lawlor, has unblushingly confessed so much not only to the newspaper men but also to Drs. Hatch and Young, who were sent to the Home this week by Governor Gage to investigate its workings under the present regime. These good doctors have made their report to His Excellency. They say, with a slather of whitewash, that Dr. Lawlor, is of a "kindly" disposition and in the next paragraph with a daub of very black paint censure him for the punishments inflicted upon his helpless charges.

If immuring his mind-bedimmed patients in a dark dungeon on a diet of "greasy" bread crusts and water is an example of Dr. Lawlor's "kindliness," suffice it to say that it is a good thing for the helpless inmates of the California Home that the doctor is not of an "unkindly," or we might say a ferocious, disposition.

Dr. Lawlor's fate is now in the hands of the Board of Directors of the Home, as Governor Gage has recommended his dismissal. It is for them to say whether or not he is to be dismissed and a more humane and competent man put in his place.

There is no politics in this. It is a case of humanity. The entire press of the Pacific Coast, regardless of politics, backed up by the people, demand a change at the California Home, and we are quite sure that the Directors will comply with Governor Gage's recommendation and that a change will be made when they meet at the Home to-day. For the sake of the unfortunate charges of the State we trust that it may be so.

For District Attorney.

Clarence F. Lea, the well known attorney of Santa Rosa, announces himself in these columns as a candidate for District Attorney of Sonoma county, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention which will convene in Santa Rosa. Lawyer Lea is in every way qualified for the office and a good campaigner, and if he receives the nomination will make it lively for his Republican opponent, whoever he may be.

General Debility

Day in and out there is that feeling of weakness that makes a burden of itself.
Food does not strengthen.
Sleep does not refresh.
It is hard to do, hard to bear, what should be easy,—vitality is on the ebb, and whole system suffers.
For this condition take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It makes the blood, gives vigor and tone to the organs and functions, and is positively unequalled for all run-down or debilitated conditions.

Hot Mineral Artesian Water

The well borers employed by Charles Ohm in boring for flowing mineral water on the Burns place, recently purchased by Mr. Ohm, struck a fine flow of hot mineral water last Thursday. An ice cold well has also been developed on the place, which will be converted into a summer resort and bathing establishment. Three more wells will be bored and a $5000 building erected this fall.

MURDER OF THE CZAR.

Eyewitness' Account of the Assassination of Alexander II.

From memoirs of the late Mlle. Hortense Rhea the following eyewitness account of the assassination of Alexander II. of Russia is published in The Century:

"It was on a Sunday, about 2 o'clock. We were rehearsing a new play. Some of us were in the greenroom when the emperor passed, escorted by his Cossacks. We were standing at the window, and with a smile he gave us the military salute we knew so well. He had hardly turned the corner when we heard an explosion. We looked at one another, and the same thought crossed each mind—an attempt on the emperor's life.

We rushed out and arrived at the corner of the street just in time to see, 200 yards from us, the explosion of the second bomb, which proved to be the fatal one. The first had killed two Cossacks. While they were arresting the assassin the czar, deaf to the entreaties of his coachman, who wanted to drive on with all speed, came out of his carriage to say a word of sympathy to his dying soldiers. He took their hands, and, addressing their murderer, he said, 'Wretch, see what you have done in your blind fury!'

"After a last look of pity at his faithful servants he was about to re-enter his carriage when a man standing at the door dropped another bomb, which he had kept concealed in his handkerchief, and that not only killed the nihilist himself, but mortally wounded the emperor. In a moment the street, before deserted, was crowded with people coming from every direction. Sleighs were going to and fro, and all we heard was, 'Thank God, the emperor lives!' His carriage being damaged, he was placed in a sleigh and driven to the palace, where he expired a few hours later. His legs had been shattered."

The Order of the Garter.

The Order of the Garter was founded in 1344—some writers say 1350—by Edward III. The original number of knights was twenty-five, his majesty making the twenty-sixth.

The emblem of the order is a dark blue ribbon edged with gold, bearing the motto "Honi soit qui mal y pense" in golden letters, with a buckle and pendant of gold richly chased. It is worn on the left leg below the knee. Regarding the adoption of this emblem and motto the story is that the Countess of Salisbury let fall her garter when dancing with the king and that he picked it up and tied it around his own leg, but that, observing the jealous glances of the queen, he restored it to its fair owner with the exclamation, "Honi soit qui mal y pense!"

The Elephant.

Animal trainers say that the elephant is the most intelligent of the brute creation and that this is one of the few animals that reason from cause to effect. Everything that the physical structure of an elephant will permit it to accomplish can be taught these curious thinking animals. To successfully instruct an elephant, however, requires a peculiar education on the part of the trainer. This latter must not only have a thorough understanding of the art of training, but he must also have a scientific knowledge of the animal's possibilities and limitations.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

LOUNIBOS' HOT MINERAL SPRINGS

They are Now Open to the General Public.

For years the remarkable medicinal properties of the hot mineral springs in this valley have been known to our home people. Only lately, however, have they become generally known to the outside world, and thousands visited Sonoma valley last year to bathe in the waters of these health-giving springs.

Mr. John Lounibos of Agua Caliente has lately developed one of the most remarkable of these hot mineral water springs on the banks of Sonoma creek, near the iron bridge which crosses that stream at Agua Caliente. Here he has erected a commodious bath house, which has been supplied with twelve porcelain bath tubs and all the appliances of an up to date bathing establishment.

This bathing resort was thrown open to the public this week and is destined to become one of the leading bathing establishments in the valley.

Charles Ohm has been boring for water on his place near Verano for the past week. He has now several fine springs which give strong indication of mineral flow. One of them is ice cold water and another hot sulphur water. It is Mr. Ohm's intention to establish fine sulphur mud baths.

The summer tourist season is now in full blast and this end of the Sonoma valley seems to be getting a due share of the outing travel. On Saturday and Sunday especially the number of transient visitors in town is most noticeable. Mr Quartaroli of the City Hotel had upward of fifty guests at dinner on last Sunday and it is likely other places of entertainment were proportionately favored.

Albert Geisselmann, the storekeeper and postmaster at Agua Caliente, announces in these columns that he has removed his saloon across the county road to a location adjoining his merchandise store. Mr. Geisselmann recently bought out Mr. Zoberbier's interests at that place and is an owner and not a tenant. Since acquiring the property he has made many improvements and will make still more as his business increases. When you happen to pass that way drop in and see him and make his acquaintance.

A big affair will be the garden party and minstrels to be given by the Woman's Club in the Plaza on Saturday, July 19th. The program will be excellent—a good minstrel performance, with the latest songs and jokes. This, with dancing, will take place in the Pavilion, which will be finely illuminated with electric lights. Refreshment and fortune telling booths will be erected on the grounds, strolling gipsies will parade around playing music and a number of spielers will direct the visitors were to go. The admission will be 25 cents, children only 10 cents.

DELIBERATE SUICIDE AT GLEN ELLEN

Farmhand Blows Out His Brains With Shotgun.

Henry Martoz, a Swiss farmhand employed on Gabriel Srieff"s mountain ranch near Glen Ellen, committed suicide last Tuesday evening by blowing his brains out with a double barreled shotgun.

The deceased was a victim of rheumatism, from which he suffered excrutiating pain at times, and he had on several occasions threatened to end his sufferings by committing suicide. Forgetting the admonition of Shakespeare that "it is better to bear the ills we have than fly to those we know not of," he secured the weapon with which he accomplished the deed, and going to a clump of small pine trees near the house, lay down on the ground and putting the gun to his head pulled the trigger and sent a charge of heavy bird shot into his head. He must have died instantly.

Mr. Streiff, the owner of the ranch, was in a field quite a distance from the house and knew nothing of Martoz's suicide until on returning from the field he discovered the unfortunate man in a pool of blood, with the shotgun lying alongside of him.

The deceased was aged 60 years. It is said he leaves a wife and six children in Switzerland.

Garden Party and Social.

A grand garden party and social will be given at Wegner's Villa, Glen Ellen, for the benefit of St. Francis' Church, Sonoma, Saturday evening, July 19th. An excellent program will be rendered. In addition to some of our best local talent, Billy Hynes, the famous comedian; W. I. O'Brien, the noted tenor, who have delighted the people of Sonoma valley already, and Miss Catherine Black, San Francisco's leading soprano, will take part in the program. At the conclusion of the program a grand supper and refreshments will be served. Good music has been secured for those who wish to enjoy a social hop. Admission to the grounds will be 50 cents.

Narrow Escape From an Exploding Bomb.

Vincenzo Proletti, the 13 year-old son of A. Proletti, residing on the Napa road, was badly burned about the face last Saturday. The youngster had attended the Fourth of July celebration in Napa the day before and brought home with him a quantity of fireworks. The next morning he essayed to fire off a big bomb. He lighted the fuse but it refused to burn and while leaning over the bomb to discover the cause it suddenly exploded. His face was badly powder burned and his hair and eyebrows singed. Considering his proximity to the bomb when it exploded it is a wonder that it did not blow his head off. The force of the explosion was downward instead of upward. To this fact he undoubtedly owes his life.

CONDUCTOR GAGE'S NARROW ESCAPE

Holds on to Hand Rail and Is Dragged 200 Yards.

Conductor Jeff Gage of the Southern Pacific Company, while making the run between Napa Junction and El Verano Wednesday, met with an experience that he will not soon forget. While his train was speeding along just this side of Napa Junction he started to pass out of one coach into another. As he reached the platform the train gave a sudden lurch, the conductor's foot slipped and he pitched head foremost over the steps. As he was falling he grasped the hand-rail and held on for dear life, his feet dragging along on the ground for 200 yards. His shouts for help were drowned by the noise of the train, which was running between twenty-five and thirty miles an hour. A passenger, however, happened out on the platform just in the nick of time, and discovering Conductor Gage's predicament, pulled the bell cord and brought the cars to a standstill.

The timely discovery made by the passenger undoubtedly saved the conductor's life, as he had been holding on for some time and was about worn out. Had Conductor Gage loosened his hold on the hand rail he would undoubtedly have been ground into atoms by the heavy passenger coaches.

Pinelli's Bakery.

Sonoma is no longer threatened with a bread famine. E. Pinelli's new bakery is now turning out fresh bread twice a day and advertises twenty-eight loaves for $1. There has been a remarkable demand for bread in Sonoma and vicinity the past month, and only last Sunday afternoon not a loaf of bread could be found on sale in town, and this, too, in face of the fact that the town boasts four bakeries and two branch bakeries.

Big Wine Press Lever.

A four-horse team conveyed a big wine press lever through town last Wednesday, consigned to the Dresel winery. The lever was fully fifty feet long and weighed five tons. It was hewed out from a big pine tree, cut down on the Weise ranch near Glen Ellen by the Weise brothers and Jim Pieratt. The lever will be used in doing its share toward turning out Sonoma valley's 1902 vintage.

The Poor Thing.

The Santa Rosa Press Democrat says that a marriage license was recently issued by County Clerk Fulton to a couple who requested that their ages should not be given to the newspapers for publication. Our contemporary remarks that perhaps the request was excusable, as an examination of the marriage register disclosed the fact that the bride to-be was twenty-eight years older than the groom.

GOOD CHERRY CROP HARVESTED

The Picking Lasted Into July--The Work Pleasant but Not Strenuous.

The fruit season this year is, on an average, from two to three weeks later than it was last. This was noticeably apparent in regard to the cherry crop. From Mr. A. D. Lowell, who owns the magnificent cherry orchard on the Napa road, it is learned that picking on Royal Annes and Black Republicans was kept up until July 3, while last year picking ceased about June 16.

Mr. Lowell's cherry crop this year was over ordinary in quantity and the quality was good. When there is a large crop prices are not so apt to keep up. Mr. Lowell sold about twenty tons to the Napa Cannery, principally Royals and Centennials, which brought 6 cents a pound; while about twenty-five tons of Tartarians and other varieties were shipped by schooner to San Francisco. These brought from 2½ to 5 cents, owing to the market. Some varieties were so low it did not pay to pick them. Holland Bigareaus were of this sort, at the close of the season. The variety known as Late Dukes are yet being picked.

Cherry picking is nice light work but not every one has the required expertness to make an efficient hand at the business. During the height of the season Mr. Lowell employs some eighteen or twenty pickers, mostly boys and young men of this vicinity, although any capable worker who applied was hired. It is recognized that all are not equal in dexterity, but clean picking is indispensable, Mr. Lowell permitting nothing in the bucket except what can be eaten. One young San Francisco gentleman who said he had "done harder graft than this," was told his services were no longer needed, simply because he kept spitting the pits of cherries he ate into his picking pail.

Mr. Lowell also has a nice crop of pears which will soon be large enough for shipping.

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT

RAN DOWN BY UNKNOWN DRIVER.

Mrs. Faithful Has Right Ear Nearly Severed and Her Little Daughter Has Collar Bone Broken.

Mrs. H. Faithful, accompanied by her 10-year-old daughter Annie, while driving along the road between this place and El Verano last Wednesday night about 9 o'clock, was run down by an unknown team and frighfully injured.

The rigs collided near the iron bridge and Mrs. Faithful and her little daughter were hurled with great violence to the ground, where they lay unable to move. The occupants of the other rig left them lying helpless alongside the road and drove off into the darkness without offering to render them aid and assistance. Hours after the collision parties passing by discovered mother and child lying alongside the road bathed in blood. Kindly hands assisted them into a conveyance and they were driven into town to the residence of Dr. Rich, who attended to their hurts.

Mrs. Faithful was frightfully cut about the head and face, the right ear being almost completely severed She also suffered a deep cut on the arm which required numerous stitches to close the gaping wound.

The daughter, Miss Annie, had her collar bone broken and was badly bruised about the body.

After having their wounds attended to by Dr. Rich, the victims of the accident were placed on a mattress and conveyed to the home of John Wagnon, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Faithful, where they will be laid up for some time from their injuries, which, although not necessarily dangerous, are very painful.

The Same Old Story.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and retold by thousands of others. He says: "Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entirely satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies." Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C. For sale by F. Duhring.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, JULY 12, 1902

TOOK HIM AT HIS WORD.

Why One Clergyman Cut Short a Sermon In College.

Presbyterian elders may sit severely in judgment on the theology of young preachers, but for ruthless criticism of preaching it is hard to equal a college audience. Manuscripts in the pulpit are considered undesirable by them, and any sermon the length of which is more than twenty minutes must be more than passing good to gain approval. Most unpardonable of all is an attempt to "play to" the audience by a reference to athletics. This is felt to be an obvious departure from the preacher's province, and is not to be tolerated. The boys keep a memorandum of the number of football sermons preached each fall by ministers of good intentions.

Occasionally the young men gathered against their will for worship are rather cruel in calling down a clergyman who has sinned against the college code. Yale registered its disapproval of a prominent New York minister in an emphatic manner. The preacher had begun shortly before 11 o'clock. The college bell chimed the quarter and the half hour following, and all precedent proclaimed that he should have done. Thirty-five minutes of exposition had been forced on the students when the minister proposed, "Now let us turn to the other side."

This was too much for the boys, who, 1,300 strong, took him at his word and shifted legs and generally changed position. The mass play was perfect and the noise very great. The widespread shuffling refused to die down till the clergyman decided to leave the subject one sided and proceed with the final hymn.—New York Tribune.

There are two forms which can be employed for this purpose, one frequently known in catalogues as halliana and the other form as the Lonicera brachybotria. This is more generally known as the Japanese evergreen honeysuckle, although the varieties are all more or less evergreen. This particular one is more fond of trailing than the others.—Meehan's Monthly.

Where Sponges Come From.

Sponges are found in all parts of the world. Three hundred different species are known to naturalists, some of which are found even on our own coasts. The number of these which have a commercial value is, however, limited. The sponges of Syria and the archipelago are the best and are used for the toilet and for delicate operations in art and industry. The species found in the Bahama islands are of very inferior quality, but their moderate price has led to their extensive use. The Tunis sponge, which is extremely durable, is also very useful, as it is adapted for very rough purposes. These practically comprise the useful sponges, though available species are also found on the coasts of Africa.

They Stopped.

The rude boys of the neighborhood, having learned that there had been a wedding in the lone brick house near the edge of town that evening, had been giving the happy couple a serenade with tin horns, cowbells and other musical instruments for four or five hours when an upper window was raised, and a nightcapped head was thrust forth.

"Don't stop if you're havin' a good time, boys," said a voice pertaining to the nightcapped head. "You ain't disturbin' nobody. The young folks that was married here this evenin' are deaf and dumb."

Then the window was lowered, and deep silence immediately began to reign.—Chicago Tribune.

His Language.

Judge A. M. Keiley used to narrate that while on the bench in the international court at Cairo after a witness whose nationality was a puzzle had been addressed in French, Spanish, German, Portuguese, Italian and Arabic and failed to make any response except to indicate by shaking his head that he did not understand Judge Keiley turned to a brother judge and remarked sotto voce, "I wonder what language the idiot speaks anyhow."

"The same as yerself, yer honor," came from the witness in the broadest Tipperary brogue.

Ancestors of Some Familiar Plants.

Some well established and interesting facts in botanical history relate to the origin of familiar plants. The ancestor of the large and fleshy cabbage was a veritable pygmy, a small plant weighing altogether scarcely half an ounce; a diminutive little vegetable, reddish in color and bitter in taste, has been metamorphosed into the inestimable potato; the sweet, juicy Altringham carrot, weighing from five to six pounds, is in a wild condition a dry, slender root unfit to eat; the delicate, well flavored Vienna glass kohlrabi, as large as a man's fist, is when wild a slender, woody, dry stem; the cauliflower in its natural locality is a thin branched flowering stem, with the little green, bitter flower buds.

No Purchase, No Letters.

In an Irish village the local postmaster, in addition to the postal business, conducts a grocery and general drapery establishment. He is anxious to push business and seldom condescends to be gracious with inquirers for letters who forget to purchase any goods. Not long since a native as soon as the mail car arrived inquired, "Ony letters fur me, Hughie?"

No notice was taken until the inquiry was repeated four times, when Hughie, without looking up from his work, gruffly said, "No."

"Shure ye hevn't looked yit."

"I sed no, and that's enuff. Ye shud get yer letters where ye buy yer goods!"

How to Open a New Book.

Hold the book with its back on a smooth or covered table; let the front board down, then the other, holding the leaves in one hand while you open a few leaves at the back, then a few at the front, and so on alternately opening back and front gently pressing open the sections till you reach the center of the volume. Do this two or three times, and you will obtain the best results. Open the volume violently or carelessly in any one place and you will likely break the back and cause a start in the leaves. Never force the back of the book

Won't Follow Advice After Paying For It

In a recent article a prominent physician says, "It is next to impossible for the physician to get his patient carry out any prescribed course of hygiene or diet to the smallest extent; he has but one resort left, namely, the drug treatment." When medicines are used for chronic constipation, the most mild and gentle obtainable, such as Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, should be employed. Their use is not followed by constipation, as they leave the bowels in a natural and healthy condition. For sale by F. Duhring.

Summer complaint is unusually prevalent among children this season. A well developed case in the writer's family was cured last week by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—one of the best patent medicines manufactured and which is always kept on hand at the home of ye scribe. This is not intended as a free puff for the company, who do not advertise with us, but to benefit little sufferers who may not be within easy access of a physician. No family should be without a bottle of this medicine in the house, especially in summer time. —Lansing, Iowa, Journal. For sale by F. Duhring.

READY FOR HIM.

A Clerk Who Had a Surprise In Store For Potter Palmer.

"As a hotel keeper Potter Palmer had many peculiarities," said an old hotel man. "When I was at the Palmer House in Chicago," he said, "there was one chap who proved equal to the occasion. It was when the 'old man,' as we always called Mr. Palmer, was putting in a particularly cranky month. It seemed as if everybody about the hotel was booked for dismissal. One day Palmer walked into the bookkeeper's office and after looking for a minute at a man who hadn't been working for more than a week or two walked quietly up to him and, moistening his lips with his tongue in his peculiar fashion, said:

"'Er—when is your month up?'

"The young man, recognizing the voice, tossed his pen on the desk without looking around, hopped back off his stool, pushed the stool out of the way and replied:

"'Now, by gum! And I've got my grip packed and under my desk, ready to start right away.'

"Palmer was stunned at first, but quickly rose to the occasion and, stepping up to the young man, patted his shoulder and without the quiver of an eyelash said:

"'No, no; you take me wrong. I don't want you to go. I merely want to know when your month is up, so that I may know when to increase your salary.'

"When the young man recovered his breath, the 'old man' was gone. But his salary was increased all right, and he became Palmer's confidential clerk and remained with him till he died."—New York Times.

Cats In Egypt.

The first people known to have domesticated cats were the ancient Egyptians, on whose monuments representations of these animals are found as early as 1600 B. C. It is on a tomb erected about 1300 B. C. that puss first appears unmistakably as a domesticated creature, being shown seated beneath a chair. In ancient Egypt the cat was an object of religious worship and was even an inmate of the temples. There was actually a cat goddess, named Bubastis, who was always depicted as having a cat's head. Behind the temple dedicated to her at Beni Hassan great pits have been found containing multitudes of cat mummies.

The cat was also regarded as an emblem of the sun, its eyes being supposed to vary in color with the progress of that luminary through the heavens. Likewise its eyes were believed to undergo a change each lunar month, for which reason the beast was also sacred to the moon.

A Juror's Defense.

A New York lawyer tells the following story of a juror in a Massachusetts court in which he was interested in a case:

"It was the first time that the man had ever served in that capacity. The jury, after listening to the arguments of counsel, retired and deliberated for a long time. Finally they reported that it would be impossible for them to reach an agreement. When they filed in from the jury room, the court was much displeased and proceeded to lecture them rather severely for their failure to agree.

"'Why, your honor,' exclaimed the new juryman, 'how in the world do you expect the members of the jury to agree when the lawyers in the case can't agree themselves?'"

Not Too Green.

"Bless my soul!" exclaimed the confidence man, meeting an honest granger on the street. "Isn't this my old uncle, Si Hoskins of Minonk?"

"Yes, it is," replied the honest granger. "And you're my nephew, Pink Slodger, the biggest rascal that ever went unhung. I was in hopes somebody had shot you by this time. If it's convenient, I'd like to have that $4 you borrowed of me sixteen years ago. Thought I'd forgot it, did you?"—Atchison Globe.

"Mourning Sunday."

A curious custom obtains among the peasantry of the Isle of Man. The Sunday following the funeral of a relative is called "mourning Sunday," and as many of the dead person's relations as are available meet together and go to church. So far well and good, but the extraordinary part of it is that throughout the entire time they remain seated and do not enter at all into any outward participation in the service.

Mrs. Flutter—And after the splendid work you have done at our church fair! Where is the man, I'd like to know, who could sell goods at 300 per cent profit? Women have no heads for business, indeed! —Boston Transcript.

ARE YOU DEAF?

ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1901.

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to sing, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain Very truly yours, F. A. WERMAN, 730 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.
